Speed Mentoring proves an open invitation for mentees to ask questions that range from practical advice to specific needs to more philosophical questions about careers in Information Systems.

The format for Speed Mentoring will be four – 10 minute segments per hour with two minutes for the scholars to move from person to person.

QUESTIONS WORTH ASKING

- Have you ever run into a sticky situation with internal politics and how did you solve it?
- How do you integrate your work and personal life?
- How did you recover from your biggest failure?
- What are the best ways to connect with busy senior faculty and administrators?
- What is the most important thing for someone at my career stage to do within the next six months?
- What is your single best practice for journal writing/preparation/submission advice?
- How did you develop your research agenda?
- How do you deal with differences in committee members who have different research styles and beliefs about rigor?
- How have you dealt with a rejected journal submission?
